“ Walt was loved by his neighbors. We would visit him in his workshop and listen to his numerous stories about The War. Walt was a true hero. He also spoke of how he met and fell in love with the love of his life, wife Lil. Until recently, he continued to make phenomenal woodworking art pieces. Dollhouses for great-grandchildren, etc. Doing all of this while in terrible pain. Walt, will dearly miss you. Rest in Peace with Lil, now. You have earned it.

“ Our entire family is saddened by the loss of this very special man, a man who was so much a part of our lives for so many years. We remember Walt as a kind and supportive friend to all of us, always willing to help us with whatever we needed. His friendship with our father, Frank Gussoni, was very important to him. Walt was the brother our dad never had. Although technically Walt worked for our dad, he was so much more than an employee. Each of us remember Walt with fondness and love, as family. ....We were very touched that when Walt was able, he would visit our father's gravesite for Memorial and other patriotic holidays, leaving an American flag in tribute to him. It is our turn to share our tribute, our gratitude for Walt's loyalty, respect, generosity, and caring that we were so blessed to have been the beneficiaries of. - The Gussoni Family
